Main Bio

Jacey Prupas is a commercial litigator with nearly 20 years of experience representing businesses in federal and state courts throughout Nevada and California. Her litigation experience is broad, encompassing all facets of commercial litigation. She handles cases from inception through trial and arbitration, dealing with complex business torts, real estate and contract disputes, healthcare issues, insurance coverage disputes, and personal injury and products cases. Her clients range from small local businesses to Fortune 500 companies.

What truly sets Jacey apart is her fierce loyalty to her clients and her ability to foster relationships within the legal community. These connections not only reflect her dedication but also ensure that her clients receive the highest level of service and representation. As a commercial litigator, Jacey's efficiency and strategic intelligence make her a formidable force in the legal arena.

Jacey, a second-generation Reno resident, attributes much of her success in her career to the influences of Judge Janet Berry (Ret.), under whom she clerked, Justice Kristina Pickering, and fellow Snell & Wilmer attorney Bill Peterson. Her passion for practicing law lies in the strategic aspect of her work, where she excels at formulating legal strategies and implementing them effectively within a team.

Jacey is a member of the firm's expanded Executive Committee and is the Managing Partner for the Reno office. Jacey is also the Co-Chair of the firm's Women's Initiative Committee.
